Project market

Visit the project market in the foyer from 12:00 - 15:45 and get to know a variety of sustainability projects in the university environment. The wide range aims to inspire, invite for networking and facilitate partnerships.

Performances

Tra di noi «Among us» 10:00 - 10:15 hours

It is among ourselves that we create our possible present and that we make reality exist. The individual is so important in the whole that without 1 there is no 2, but also so dispensable that it does not exist on its own. We do not exist as individuals because we are the constant conversation of our body and mind, feeding off each other, constantly covering the empty spaces of our other selves. Who am I without you? What are we all doing here? And where do the problems come from?

Cast/Design, production and direction/Scenography: Julio Yanes and Eva Sotriffer (Puppets)
Assistance to the dramaturgy and external view: Vlatko Kultzen
Music: Max Castlunger / Text: «Felicità» from Claudia Fabris, «Parole sotto sale»
A project supported by U Change

Sustainable Poetry 16:15 - 16:30 hours

The two artists articulate in their poetic performance the complexity of the themes discussed during the day and question us through wordplay, language play and humour about the possibilities of collaborative engagement for sustainability.

Performance languages: German and French
Artists: Samuel Basil Rhomberg, Slam Poet, Bern & Klimte, Poet, Genève

Workshops

A wide range of workshops awaits you.
Each workshop is offered twice (see schedule).

			Session Language
1	Sustainability in three dimensions	Dominic Church, Project leader Strategieentwicklung, Stadt Luzern Immobilien	Climate crisis, demographic change or biodiversity: many aspects of sustainability come to the fore in urban development. A neighbourhood walkabout and visit to the Schüür concert venue explores the challenges facing the City of Lucerne and the goals and measures it is pursuing.
			Session I: DE Session II: EN
2	What kind of knowledge is helpful to find new ways?	Dr. Sibylle Studer, Prof. Dr. Christian Pohl and Theres Paulsen, td-net – Network for Transdisciplinary Research, Swiss Academies of Arts and Sciences	In this workshop we explore «Three Types of Knowledge» and practice to formulate questions in such a manner that they generate actionable knowledge. Do we already know the destination, but not yet the path to get there? Or do we first need to deliberate on where to go?
			Session I: DE Session III: EN
3	Exchange of good practices and ways of good cooperation for student projects and funding platforms	Yves Gärtner and Lucrezia Oberli, U Change funding programme, Swiss Academies of Arts and Sciences	Share your own success, formulate difficulties and benefit from the experience of others: This is the main topic of this workshop. Guided by thematic focuses and key questions, participants share experiences and discuss promising approaches.
			Session I: FR Session II: DE
4	Cooperation with higher education institutions to support student engagement with sustainability	Mégane Schafhirt, Focus Sustainability	The national student centre Focus Sustainability supports students across Switzerland to engage meaningfully with sustainability. We invite you to help foster productive collaboration with higher education institutions.
			Session I: EN Session III: FR (DE tr)
5	New construction Campus Horw	Monika Kloth, Pädagogische Hochschule Luzern, Sarah Federli, Hochschule Luzern, Technology - Architecture	On the way to a sustainable campus: Which social, economic and ecological aspects must be taken into account? We give an insight into our project and discuss together ideas that could be implemented in construction or operation.
			Session II: DE (FR tr) Session III: DE (FR tr)
6	Housing and sustainability as an inter- and transdisciplinary field of action	Selina Lutz, Project leader Hochschule Luzern – Technology & Architecture Dr. Stephanie Weiss, lecturer and project leader Hochschule Luzern – Social Work Stefan Kunz, Co-leader Interdisciplinary Clusters (ITC) Space & Society, Hochschule Luzern	On the topic of housing, diverse and partly diverging demands emerge in terms of sustainability. From a research and teaching perspective these challenges can only be approached in an inter- and transdisciplinary way. In the workshop, we will discuss the particularly urgent challenges and show approaches for solutions.
			Session II: DE (FR tr) Session III: DE (FR tr)

7	Sustainability through sufficiency?	Prof. Klaus Mathis, Center for law and sustainability, Universität Luzern	Both the efficiency and consistency strategies rely mainly on technical innovations, whereas the sufficiency approach starts with the behaviour of consumers. This workshop will therefore explore the question of how we can personally change our behaviour towards sustainable consumption.	Session I: DE (FR tr.) Session II: DE (FR tr.)
8	Insight into the continuing education course «Sustainability for Lecturers in Design & Art»	Samuel Perret, Docent Objectdesign HSLU D&K and Leader Strategy und Innovation at Milani Design & Consulting AG, Daniela Zimmermann, lecturer Textile-design HSLU D&K and freelance designer	We will look back at two implementations and present the contents of the three modules «BASICS - Introduction, Holistic Thinking», «ACTION - Design Tools, Initiatives» and «HOLDING - Personal Positioning». Furthermore, we will provide an insight through the perspective of a former course participant.	Session I: DE Session II: DE
9	How can sustainability be effectively integrated into university teaching?	Sandra Haessig, project supervisor OST Ostschweizer Fachhochschule Institut WERZ, Sandra Wilhelm, anders kompetent GmbH	As part of a FOEN research project, WERZ Institute is evaluating how sustainability can be effectively integrated into university teaching. At the workshop, we will discuss recommendations for action and possible further developments based on pilot projects and experience reports.	Session II: EN Session III: DE
10	Sustainability: An ethical debate	Prof. Dr. Peter G. Kirchschräger, Ordinarius for Theological Ethics and Director of the Institute for Social Ethics ISE, Theologische Fakultät, Universität Luzern	What does sustainability mean from an ethical perspective? How can this principle be ethically justified? There will be an interactive discussion about different approaches and concepts to sustainability	Session I: DE (FR tr.) Session II: DE
11	Better Science: Your Ideal University	Mara Hofer, Board Member Students' Association Ressort Equality & Human Resources, Universität Bern; Joel Schaad, Research assistant, Department for Equal Opportunities, Universität Bern	What does the ideal university look like? How do people treat each other, what values are important to them? What is their idea of academic excellence? In the workshop, participants formulate their image of an ideal university and find out how they can make it a reality.	Session I: EN Session III: DE
12	How can thinking processes be sustainably designed?	Ursula Ulrich, Centre for theatre education of the PH Luzern	The participants experience an artistic-creative access to the topic of sustainability – through a theatre-pedagogical approach and the entanglement of head, space and body.	Session II: DE Session III: DE
